CHRONIC RENAL FAILURE SUBJECT OF UM CONTINUING EDUCATION SEMINAR

The University of Montana School of Pharmacy has scheduled a seminar for health-care professionals titled "Chronic Renal Failure" Sunday, Feb. 6, as part of its continuing education program.

The weekend seminar is part of a series of health-education classes accredited by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education.

The class will meet from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. in the UM Social Sciences Building Room 356. Cost for the seminar is $30. Participants may earn six continuing education credits.

Evaluation of renal function and the management of chronic renal failure and its complications are among the course topics. The problems of adjusting drug dosages in the patient with chronic renal failure will also be discussed.

Instructors are William J. Docktor and Patricia J. Lobeda from the UM School of Pharmacy.
